CALL FOR PAPERS [CENTRE FOR SOCIAL JUSTICE]

Center for Social Justice has been set up as a research centre to allow free expression of ideas and thoughts upon the issues that affect the closely inter-woven fabric of law and society in any manner whatsoever. The Centre as a part of its aim and object wishes to provide a platform whereby these views can be expressed and discussed upon after it comes to the knowledge of the society at large. As the Centre has been striving hard to promote awareness amongst the law as well as non-law community upon the various social issues relating to injustice and intervention that it requires, so the need was felt to encourage academicians, advocates as well as law and non-law professionals and most importantly students to pen down their thoughts and manner in which they feel the problems now faced by the society can be resolved. In order to realize this high ambition and also due to the constant encouragement provided by the Institute, the Centre has decided to launch the Journal for Centre of Social Justice (JCSJ) [ISSN]and seeks contributions from all the academicians, advocates, law as well as non-law professionals and students for its flagship issue. The details for the submission are provided as hereunder: -

Themes for Submission:

The recent spate of rape incidents and in light of such a situation the stand taken by the Parliament to draft a law that would go on to ensure the protection of women has had their own share of criticism. The drastic changes expected in the law including the judgment of the Court upon the Delhi Rape case as well as the Bijal Patel rape case, lays down the backdrop for the first issue which shall focus upon the vulnerability of the she-gender and expect contributions upon the following themes in relation to Women. Areas of interest for this journal issue include, but are not limited to, the following topics:

1. Crimes against women and challenges in abolishing the crimes

2. Role of Legal Education in empowering women

3. Marginalization of women in the society

4. Women and Men: Issue of Gender discrimination
